

A film documentary exposing the sly laws which criminalise normal historical enquiry and expression, including firsthand accounts from the persecuted Defence Attorneys and those who dare attend the ongoing trials in Europe. Chapter 3 is a firsthand account of the famous trial in Vienna, Austria, of the British historian David Irving who was given a three years jail sentence for talking about events that happened (or not, as the case may be) more than sixty years ago.

An independent film documentary on DVD.

Running time: 116 mins PAL (European version);
121 mins NTSC (USA version).
